

MEMORIES OF A FIRST WORLD WAR SAILOR

IN AID OF THE LIFEBOATS – GET YOUR COPY NOW

2017 marks the centenary of the Battle of Otranto, where 47 British steam drifters, mostly crewed by fishermen, were engaged in a struggle for the control of the Otranto Straits at the mouth of the Adriatic Sea.

In this wartime memoir, this important but little-known battle is brought to life by WW1 sailor John M. Smith, just one of the many crew aboard the drifters. Now published by his great niece, this book's proceeds go to the RNLI.

MEMORIES OF A FIRST WORLD WAR SAILOR

JOHN M. SMITH

From the back cover: In May 1917, a fierce battle plays out on the Adriatic Sea. Austro-Hungarian destroyers have their sights on the annihilation of an Allied naval barrage. For John, the battle is only the beginning of the tale he shares with us – a tale of courage and resilience, told with modesty and quiet humour.

Get your copy now from Amazon (£5.99 paperback, £2.99 Kindle) or from the Scottish Fisheries Museum, Anstruther, which held a Battle of Otranto exhibition throughout May & June 2017.

Also available from:

- East Neuk Books & Giftware, Rodger Street, Anstruther.
- Crail Museum & Heritage Centre, Marketgate, Crail.

All proceeds from sale of book goes to RNLI Anstruther.